HORSES PRANCE TO BAND MUSIC

Fine Animals on Display at the State Fair.

ADMIRED BY LARGE CROWD

CATTLE ALSO PARADED—RACES ARE CALLED OFF.

From behind a weeping sty the sun tiefed to poke his face, and out of the stables at the state fair grounds came the horses. Animals in High Spirits.

It was a fascinating study in color and action. There were blacks, browns bays, whites, sorrels, roans, and grays, all stepping briskly as the band played, and most of them betraying an excess of spirits by rearing or whirling, or even kicking.

The procession started from the west side of the grounds and marched down the open space south of the track, circling back to the place of beginning. The crowds ranged themselves in a long oval and watched with many ex-long oval and watched with many expressions of admiration the magnificent specimens of horseflesh as they marched proudly up and down.

A little later the cattle paraded. Shorthorns and Herefords of warm reland white coats, Holsteins and Red Polled and the lighter, daintier, prettier Jerseys were walked up and down the west end of the grounds, where a few who happened to be in the locality looked on.

It had been intended to have a horse parade on the downtown streets at noon, but this feature was abandoned because of the rain. The parade on the grounds was given instead.

Rain Interferes With Fair.

Rain Interferes With Fair.

With rain nearly all day yesterday and mud all the time, the fair yesterday and mud all the time, the fair yesterday afternoon was held again under discouraging circumstances. The rain came down all the forenoon in a "drizzle-drozzle," and for a long while there appeared to be no hope for anything different. About the middle of the afternoon, however, the rain ceased, the sun came out, and all was merry. The horse cavalcade began, and after that the festive barkers on the Midway began to nipe their lays, with some hope of success. The space in front of each loud-voiced proclaimer was packed, and as he finished a stream pressed forward to penetrate the mysteries concealed beneath the canvas walls. The "Old Plantation" "Dirty Dora, the Mud Eater," the "Greatest Living Palmist," the World's Greatest Vaudeville," "Palace of Illusions," "Temple of Freaks," and all the other attractions were patronized well.

Then the Sun Came Out.

The appearance of the sun infused new life into everything. The street cars, up to that time carrying only a mournful few, soon were packed with humanity. Late in the afternoon there was a good-sized throng on the grounds in spite of the fact that the races had been called off. The people amused themselves wandering about the exhibits, studying the sights in manufactions, studying the sights in manufaction and the sights in manufactions. MINING PROPERTY SOLD.

Elephant Company Passes Into

Hands of Franklin Syndicate. A mining deal was completed last night which the property of the Elephant lining company, consisting of four and the holdings of the Franklin syndicate passed into the hands of Dr. Franklin and his associates. The deal consisted of the transfer of over 200,000 shares of the Elephant company, which is capitalized for 400,000 shares.

The leading figures in the Elephant company have been W. H. Dalc. J. W. Burton. W. H. King and S. A. King, all of whom retain a part of their original holdings, but will resign from the official household and their places will be filled at a meeting soon to be held by the purpose. all the other attractions were patronized well.

The directors are considering extending the time for closing the fair until the end of the week. The continued unpleasant weather has caused so far a maneial loss. If Wednesday, the last day for the frir under the present schedule, is bright and clear and the prospect is for continued pleasant weather, the directors are likely to hold the exposition open a few days longer. It was stated yesterday, however, that if the weather showed no signs of inaprovement the fair would be closed as lists planned, and an appeal for relief would be made to the next legislature.

NOTES OF THE FAIR.

C. R. Shaw of Boise, president of the Idaho State Fair association, was a visftor on the grounds yesterday. He was interested in getting some of the fast horses now at the track to come to the Idaho fair, which will open soon. Mr. Shaw was successful in his mission. "We will have 250 fast horses there and some fine racing," he said yesterday afternoon. "We look for one of the most successful fairs we have had. It is a pity the Utah fair has been so handleapped by the weather. I trust and believe we will have no such difficulty."

A meeting of women interested in forming a chapter of the Daughters of the Daughters of the Confederacy was held in the parlors of the Kenyon hotel yesterday at 4 p. m. Mrs. Wheat was chosen temporary chairvides that in order to make a coal location, for instance, the applicant must show and make affidavit that he has opened and exposed on his claim a vein or deposit of coal of commercial value. When Special Agent, H. V. A. Ferguson went on the stand yesterday on behalf of the government, he had to withstand a searching cross-examination at the hands of defendants' attorney, Ed W. Senior, and he practically admitted that the kands in question did not come under the meaning of the law reasurer, and Mrs. Van Alstine, hisorian.

The purposes of the organization were dwelt upon somewhat at length, among shich were mentioned the care of the deceased veterans' graves, the helping or widows or children of former wearers of the gray, the propagating of the correct listories of the war, and the preservation of the memories of those who died as they believed for the right.

Provision was made for the asking for
